

Italy: Art Verona, a constantly enriched italian fair

06/10/2011

This year's "ArtVerona" will be held from October the 6th to the 10th 2011 for the seventh consecutive time. True to its mission of most representative Italian quality galleries fair, ArtVerona places itself between continuity and change. A very positive thought leads to this new edition which is among the three major fairs in Italy.

The participants galleries focus on Italian modern and contemporary art as representatives of international artists as well as other less famous but equally interesting artists. Accredited as a key appointment for the Italian market, "ArtVerona" sees itself as an exhibiting event as well as cultural event. A busy schedule made up of awards, meetings, events and off-site facilities reinforces the strength of this fair.

Having recorded some 20,000 visitors for the 2010 edition, the "ArtVerona" fair develops new products each year in order to attract a wider audience.

[exibart]